8 November 2013 // issue 287

On Sunday 3 November we held our last big community event of the year – Guy Fawkes Night. If you weren't able to get there for the fireworks you can see some of the highlights on page 8.

In this issue we meet newly elected Young Mayor Jonathan Bennett, who will be championing the views of young people across the borough and beyond.

There are useful and informative articles on ways to communicate with the council (p15) and top tips to save energy and money (p16).

Anyone looking for work should read the fascinating story of how Workplace, the council's jobs brokerage scheme, has helped residents train up to start meaningful careers in healthcare at Barts Health, the largest NHS Trust in the UK (p28).

Airport consultation extended
Due to the number of responses to the London City Airport planning consultation including many who have asked for extra time to submit a response Newham Council has decided to extend the deadline from 28 October 2013 until 12noon on Wednesday 18 December 2013

The major planning applications propose additional infrastructure passenger facilities and a new hotel at the airport The council is now publicising the extended consultation deadline including writing to more than 25,000 homes in the local area

A Newham Council spokesperson said "We know these are major planning applications and we have already had a significant response We have extended the deadline until 18 December to ensure as many local people and wider stakeholders as possible can make their voices heard "

Further information page 18

Housing service survey
Questionaires are being sent to a large sample of Newham Council's tenents and leaseholders to find out their opinions on their housing services

The council needs as many people as possible to complete the survey so that it can be sure it has a complete picture of what residents think.

If you receive a survey take the time to fill it in If you return it you will be entered into a prize draw with the chance to win £200 All the information provided will be confidential

Remembrance events
Newham Council is inviting residents to a series of Remembrance Sunday events across the borough

They take place on Sunday 10 November at East Ham Cenotaph Central Park, High Street South 10 55am following a Royal British Legion parade All Saints West Ham Parish Church, Church Street, at 10 40am at St Mark's Memorial, Factory Road North Woolwich, at 10 55am and St Luke's Memorial, Tarling Road Canning Town, from 10 30am

Sights on helping visually impaired

Newham Council supported World Sight Day by raising awareness of visual impairment and the support that is available to the people it affects

The Community Resource Centre in Chargeable Lane, Plaistow hosted the council's Information Equipment and Demonstration Area (IEDA) team, who answered questions and provided information about preventing sight loss

Residents who attended were invited to take part in activities which will help train their eyes and may prevent sight deterioration over time An optician also offered free consultations

Councillor Neil Wilson, executive member for equalities and social inclusion, said 'World Sight Day highlights blindness as a global public health issue The number of visually impaired people in Newham is expected to reach almost 5,000 by 2020 We encourage everyone to look after their eyes to help prevent long-term problems from developing "

People wanting more information can contact the IEDA team on 020 3373 1543 or by emailing IEDA@newham.gov.uk

New classrooms on the wing

Beckton ward councillors Ayesha Chowdhury and Alec Kellaway helped cut the ribbon to officially open a new £1 7m extension at Gallions Primary School

They and deputy mayor Councillor Lester Hudson joined chair of governors Hamet Goodman to launch the school's new Green Wing, which offers six extra classrooms.

The school can now offer practical and quiet areas and separate playgrounds for pupils in Years 1 and 2 There is also a new cooking room film editing suite and studio, a science lab, role play area, design and technology workroom, more toilets and a bigger car park.

Cllr Kellaway said "The council's multi-million pound school expansion programme will have provided an additional 10,000 primary school places by 2015, principally by expanding successful and popular schools and also by providing some new ones We are confident of meeting the demand for school places, which will rise because the borough has the youngest population in the capital "

Rugby pupils fit for a Prince

Prince Harry gave pupils from Canning Town's Rokeby School a coaching session at Twickenham Stadium, the home of English rugby.

The Prince is patron of All Schools, the Rugby Football Union's programme to help secondary schools take up the sport. Rokeby School is now in its second year with the programme.

The pupils were put through their paces by Prince Harry and Rugby World Cup 2003 winner and former England captain Jason Robinson.

Jason said: "It's great to see the Rokeby pupils taking up the game and embracing the core values that make the sport so special. They have only been playing rugby union for just over a year and I'm sure that having the opportunity to meet Prince Harry and play on the famous pitch at Twickenham will inspire them to keep playing for many years to come."

Cheque cares for casualties

Deputy mayor Councillor Lester Hudson presented a cheque for £5,200 on behalf of Newham Council to the Care for Casualties charity.

Care for Casualties is an appeal run by The Rifles Regimental Trust, which provides welfare and support to casualties injured during the Afghanistan and Iraq conflicts.

Cllr Hudson presented the cheque to G Company 7 Rifles at West Ham Territorial Army Centre during an open evening to showcase what the TA and regular Army can offer to those interested in joining.

The money was raised during collections at community events staged by the council, including the Under the Stars music nights.

Cllr Hudson said: "Care for Casualties gives the families of fallen riflemen, the wounded and their families, the support, inspiration and means to rebuild their lives. We thank residents and businesses whose donations have helped show our appreciation for their courage and sacrifice."

Young ones are getting it right

I always enjoy watching the race to become Newham's Young Mayor. It's the one time I can witness the cut and thrust of election campaigning without personally being on tenterhooks over the result.

After a month of intense campaigning by the 20 candidates, Jonathan Bennett was chosen by his peers as our seventh Young Mayor. I am sure you all join me in wishing him well in the year ahead, along with our new deputy young mayor Adam Khaliq and the youth council.

> "This year's Young Mayor election was Newham's biggest ever with 14,428 votes cast by young people across the borough."

Jonathan campaigned on a platform of making sure young people have full access to the valuable and worthwhile opportunities that Newham has to offer. I look forward to being able to support him in that.

This year's Young Mayor election was Newham's biggest ever with 14,428 votes cast by young people across the borough. The hugely impressive turnout of 73 per cent was the highest in our Young Mayor elections so far and a level of voter engagement that any politician would be proud of.

Whatever our young people are doing, they are going about it in the right fashion. These figures don't just show how important the Young Mayor scheme is to our young people, but also how effective this year's candidates have been in using all of the tools at their disposal – their video manifestos alone were viewed more than 18,000 times online.

I'm very proud that our young people continue to want to be involved in the democratic process. But it would not be possible without our teachers and schools who support candidates and host ballot boxes so that their students can vote.

I am sure Jonathan and Adam will continue the fantastic work of their predecessors Rebekah Dike and Theu Ho, who have been wonderful ambassadors and performed their duties superbly.

And Jonathan, you are on notice. You may be the Young Mayor, but that doesn't mean you get to call me the old Mayor. And I hope you like cakes. Because you will be helping me judge the best ones at next year's Mayor's Newham Show should I be re-elected.

Sir Robin and [illegible]

Mayor's view

It's our duty to remember

For many people, war is what happens in other countries or something you see reported in the news. For others, it's something very real that they have experienced first-hand. That thought went through my mind on Saturday when I laid a poppy wreath ahead of the West Ham United home game against Aston Villa.

We were remembering those from generations past that died defending others, as well as those who continue to fall in conflicts and wars. And we especially remembered the West Ham Pals, the 13th Service Battalion of the Essex Regiment, a volunteer battalion formed by Hammers supporters in 1914.

Remembrance Sunday is a time for us all to ensure that the lives that were lost and the sacrifices that continue to be made as part of modern day conflicts are never forgotten.

And it is more poignant as we approach the centenary of the outbreak of the First World War.

Very few members of the generation who remember the Great War are left to recall the huge sacrifices that were made. The duty to remember therefore falls on us all and remembrance should become even more valued.

Laying wreaths with David Gold, joint chairman of West Ham United, centre, and Paul Faulkner, chief executive of Aston Villa

Next year offers an opportunity to ensure that each generation understands how this tumultuous era of history has shaped our nation. We must use it well.

Let's give different sports a try

Most people in Newham will probably be able to tell you West Ham United's Geoff Hurst and Martin Peters won the 1966 football world cup for England. But they probably won't know that Jonny Wilkinson won the 2003 Rugby World Cup for England.

Newham is hosting five matches in the 2015 Rugby World Cup at the Olympic Stadium in Stratford. We intend to use this upcoming event to introduce our young people to a sport that traditionally has not been played in Newham much, outside of places like East London Rugby Club in West Ham and some schools.

Elsewhere in the Newham Mag, Will Greenwood, a member of England's 2003 winning side and an ambassador for England Rugby 2015, encourages Newham residents to get involved.

Rugby is a sports development priority in Newham's Every Child programme. Newham may traditionally be football territory but we want to inspire young people to give rugby and other sports a try.

with Sir Robin Wales

Setting the night alight

More than 30,000 people braved the threat of bad weather to come out to Newham's Guy Fawkes Night fireworks display, the council's last big, free public avant of 2013.

Residents of all ages were treated to a breathtaking fireworks and stunning laser display at the event held at Wanstead Flats, E7. For 22 minutes, the night sky was illuminated with ear-tingling bangs and exciting starbursts of lights dropping like coloured diamonds. The sky was filled with the superbly designed and stunning choreographed display which was set to dramatic music.

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "I'd like to thank everyone for coming out to mark Guy Fawkes Night.

"In total, this year more than 135,000 people attended our free annual events which include the Mayor's Newham Show, Under the Stars music nights, the Waterfront Festival and of course Guy Fawkes Night. I think it is fantastic that the people of Newham can come together and have a free great night out."

A Will to win

October 31 marked exactly two years to go to the final of the Rugby World Cup (RWC) 2015 and 22 November will mark exactly ten years since England won the RWC in 2003, beating Australia 20-17 in Sydney's Olympic Stadium.

Newham is looking forward to playing a key role in the delivery of RWC 2015 by hosting five games at the Olympic Stadium in Stratford.

Will Greenwood, a member of England's 2003 winning team and an ambassador for the 2015 tournament, reflects on RWC 2003 and looks ahead to rugby's showpiece event touching down in England in two years' time.

What's it like to win a Rugby World Cup?

"It is an incredible feeling. As a group we had worked so hard for four years and been through some huge disappointments. We were not the perfect team and we had had some real horror shows beforehand, but we had learned what it meant to go behind in games, to find ourselves under pressure but still find a way to win.

"The excitement for me came a couple of days after the final with my mates in the pub. But at the time it was just sheer relief. I don't remember much of the game but more of the changing room afterwards and not wanting to leave the Olympic Stadium in Australia because I knew deep down that the team would probably never play together again. We had some special times.

"Now every time I look at the Webb Ellis trophy I am filled with pride. It was a great time and one I hope we can replicate in 2015."

What will it mean to see rugby played in the iconic Olympic Stadium?

"I was lucky enough to watch a lot of the 2012 Games in the Stadium and at the Velodrome. I saw Usain Bolt win the 100m and Mo Farah win the 5000m and the atmosphere was incredible. It was a wall of noise as Mo ran round.

"To have 54,000 people rammed in here to watch the likes of South Africa and New Zealand and the Bronze Play-Off Final will be truly special, and I hope will grab the attention of West Ham United fans who potentially might consider becoming Saracens or Harlequins fans or exploring the rugby avenue."

What can RWC 2015 do for grassroots rugby in Newham?

"That is one of the challenges and one of the biggest opportunities of RWC 2015. The Rugby Football Union has in place a lead up and legacy committee which is making sure we take advantage of having so many eyeballs on rugby. I was lucky enough to coach at East London Rugby Club in West Ham a few years back with a TV programme called School of Hard Knocks and they loved it. So RWC 2015 is a massive opportunity for clubs like East London, and others in the area, to grab the attention of youngsters and give them the opportunity to play rugby."

What can fans new to the sport expect?

"They can expect tremendous sportsmanship and friendship with fans of both sides mixing. The beauty of rugby is that there is no away end. Everyone is in together. There is also respect from the crowd for goal kickers and from players towards the officials. Just imagine a referee of 5ft 3ins telling a player of 6ft 7ins to back off ten yards and the response being 'yes sir'.

"It is a great family environment. I know in and around the stadium there will be loads of stuff put on in fan zones for the kids to enjoy, being able to experience the odd shaped ball perhaps for the first time and be able to pass it around and go home hooked.

"Newham residents should really get behind RWC 2015. It's coming to town with five games in the Olympic Stadium. I hope to see people there."

Record turnout for Young Mayor election

After weeks of campaigning, in the race for Young Mayor there can only be one winner. This year, the hotly contested title went to 15-year-old Jonathan Bennett.

More than 73 per cent of the borough's young people took to the polls to vote in the election held last month. The turnout is an increase of 12 percentage points on last year's election – the highest in the scheme's seven year history and higher than the last general election

Jonathan, a student at Plaistow's Cumberland School, fought tough competition from 20 other hopefuls vying for the position which will see him represent the views and interests of almost 20,000 young people in Newham.

To secure the coveted title, Jonathan received 1,320 votes closely followed by runner up Adam Khaliq, 16, from East Ham's Langdon School who was named deputy young mayor with 1,294 votes. He and the remaining candidates will support the work of the Young Mayor as part of the influential youth council.

As the seventh democratically elected Young Mayor of Newham, Jonathan's manifesto aims to help young people access worthwhile opportunities in the borough, and ensure they can generate their own personal income. He will also be allocated a budget of £25,000 to support his manifesto aims and local projects. He, along with the youth council, will decide how the money is spent

Jonathan said: "I'm really excited to be Young Mayor. I see this as a fantastic opportunity to make a difference to the lives of young people in the borough

"I want to ensure that Newham's young people are consulted and involved in decisions affecting them and that they can access opportunities that will benefit them in the long run."

"I want to ensure that Newham's young people are consulted and involved in decisions affecting them..."

Mayor Sir Robin Wales congratulated the new Young Mayor saying: "Our Young Mayor initiative is vital to ensuring that our young people are involved in democracy

"We have one of the longest running youth engagement programmes in the country. Every young person who was involved in this year's election, whether as a voter, campaigner or candidate, has played their part in making this event a success. I congratulate Jonathan on his campaign and well deserved victory."

Council services at your fingertips

The ways you can interact with the council are changing so we can protect the services you tell us matter. We're making it easier for you to contact us at a time that's convenient for you by making more services accessible online. You might already do your banking online, shop online and book your holiday online, so why not contact the council online?

Using the example of renewing parking permits, here's how simple it is to do it when you do it online. >>>

Your comments about online renewals

"Easy to use"

"Good move the council has made"

"Simple and straight forward, took me a couple of minutes"

"Recommend to family and friends"

"Very pleased with the service"

Reasons to go online

- Access council services at your convenience, day or night
- Apply for services such as bulky waste collection
- Pay your Council Tax, rent or fixed penalty notice
- Report anti social behaviour including fly tipping and dog fouling

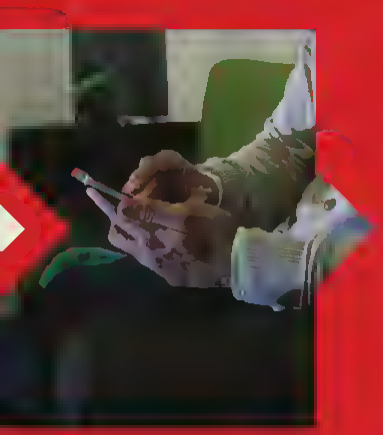
Resident A: going online

Resident A wants an easy life. He works 9am-5pm, pays all his bills by direct debit and uses his free time to do the things he enjoys, like spending time with family and friends

One evening at 10pm, he realised his resident parking permit was up for renewal and immediately went online. Having already submitted his eligibly documents when he first applied, also done online, he visits www.newham.gov.uk/MyNawham and logs on using his email address and password

He clicks on 'apply for it' and then 'parking permits', selecting 'resident parking permit' from the choices offered. His circumstances haven't changed so he clicks to confirm this. Within seconds, his request is confirmed. His renewed resident parking permit is posted out to him first class.

Time taken: less than five minutes



Resident B: over the phone

Resident B has a family and is always busy. She finds it difficult to find time to do everything she needs to. She realises that her resident parking permit is about to expire and panics. She searches for Newham Council's telephone number – she's written it down somewhere but can't find it very easily. She waits until her lunchtime to call, which, unknown to her, is one of the busiest times to contact the council

She listens to the options and waits patiently to be put through to an operator. When she gets through she discovers that she cannot renew her permit over the phone and is advised to go online to do this

Resident B takes down the council's web address and does the transaction online at home later that day using her own mobile phone after the kids have gone to bed. She's surprised at how simple and quick it is and how many services are accessible to her – at any time of the day. She makes a mental note to always go online to the council's website if she needs any information.

Time taken: 10 minutes, wasted. Less than five minutes online

Resident C: face to face

Resident C has lots of time on her hands. She doesn't mind visiting the council's Customer Service Centre (CSC) and regularly goes to the library. She doesn't know how to use the internet. When she realises her parking permit is due for renewal she heads straight to her CSC.

It's Monday and the CSC is very busy. Resident C waits for some time to be seen. When she makes it to the counter, the officer explains how simple it is for her to do the renewal herself online. She explains that she doesn't have internet access at home. The officer tells her that all Newham libraries have free internet access. Resident C reluctantly admits she doesn't know how to use the internet and the officer tells her about the council's touch screen, self-service kiosks. They can be used to do a range of things like make payments, report problems and renew things like resident parking permits. Scanners are also available if you need to submit copies of documents.

The officer takes Resident C to the self service kiosk where she renews her parking permit; she is surprised at how easy they are to use. The next time she visits her library she uses the kiosk to book a bulky item collection

Time taken: 30 minutes. Using self service kiosk: 5 minutes

Cold comfort

The recent announcement of price hikes by the energy companies is a Christmas present that nobody wants.

This month London will see energy price increases of up to 11.1 per cent. While most people will find it difficult to manage the increase, in Newham this is likely to have even more impact as we have a higher degree of fuel poverty.

What is fuel poverty?

A household that needs to spend more than ten per cent of its income on heating their home is said to be in fuel poverty. There are four main causes of fuel poverty:

- energy inefficiency (poor insulation, old boiler)
- high energy costs
- low income
- consumer behaviour (wasting energy unnecessarily)

Fuel poverty has a negative impact on quality of life and health. It is associated with an increase in winter deaths, cardio-vascular disease, respiratory problems and poor mental health.

Newham has consistently been in the five London boroughs with the highest percentage of households in fuel poverty. Nationally fuel poverty is more prevalent in private rented properties than any other sector of housing. Newham's groundbreaking private rented property licensing scheme aims to drive up the quality of housing and is just one of the ways that the council is tackling fuel poverty.

Home improvements

Of the four factors affecting fuel poverty, energy inefficiency is the most important. The council's website has information about a range of grants, discounts and financial help that is available for you to improve the energy efficiency of your home. Installing a new boiler and getting effective insulation are the most important changes you can make and financial support may be available to help you do it. Visit www.newham.gov.uk/energyefficiency to see if you qualify.

Get a better deal

The next most important issue is the cost of energy. You should regularly review how much you are charged for your gas and electricity and change suppliers if you can get a better deal. Newham Council is supporting the Big London Energy Switch, a collective energy switching scheme that aims to get consumers a better deal. To sign up or for more information visit www.newham.gov.uk/thinkingaboutswitching or call 020 3373 4892 before 19 November.

Increase your income

Workplace, the council's job brokerage scheme exists to help you to train, find work and climb up the next rung of your career. Being in work is one of the most important things that you can do to improve your life. Find out more by visiting www.newhamworkplace.co.uk.

For people who have retired or are on benefits there is also a range of financial support available including Cold Weather Payments, Winter Fuel payments and energy grants. To find out more visit www.newham.gov.uk/energyefficiency.

Change what you do

There are things you can do in your home every day which will not cost you money but could save you money on your fuel bills:

- turn down your thermostat. Reducing your room temperature by 1°C could cut your heating bills by up to 10 per cent annually
- set your heating and hot water to come on only when you need them
- close your curtains at dusk to stop heat escaping through the windows
- always turn off the lights when you leave a room
- don't leave appliances on standby or leave chargers plugged in
- fill your washing machine, tumble dryer or dishwasher every time you use them to reduce the number of loads you do and save energy.

Want to know more?

Many people may struggle to pay their energy bills this year. Newham Council could help you have a warmer home and pay your bills. Go online to www.newham.gov.uk/energyefficiency to discover more about:

Grants, discounts and financial help to make your home more energy efficient including:

- Warm Home Discount
- Green Deal
- Energy Company Obligation (ECO).

Information about:

- Energy switching
- The Big London Energy Switch
- How to work out your energy use from your bills.

There is also information about financial support for those most in need including:

- Cold Weather Payments

DANGEROUS DOGS HAVE HAD THEIR DAY

Irresponsible owners and dangerous dogs are a bad combination. Dangerous dogs can be intimidating, threatening and, in extreme cases, prone to attacking people.

To counter the problems caused by dangerous dogs, Newham Council and Newham Police have successfully joined forces to protect the public from this menace.

Since starting the partnership 18 months ago, warrants, seizures and destruction of dangerous dogs has reached record levels:

- 44 dog related warrants have been applied for and granted, under the Dangerous Dogs Act.
- 34 dogs have been seized as a direct result of these warrants.
- 14 Pit Bull dogs have been seized on the street.

Of the dogs found to be dangerous or prohibited, 50 per cent were destroyed and the remainder were returned to their owners with stringent conditions.

Chief Inspector Sean McDermid, from Newham Police, said: "Our partnership has reduced a risk to public safety and sent a strong message to irresponsible owners and criminals."

Councillor Andrew Baikie, executive member for housing and customer services, said: "Safety remains our residents' number one concern and ours too. This is why we will not hesitate to confiscate and destroy illegal and dangerous dogs. We fully support and promote responsible dog ownership. We encourage owners to buy legal dogs from reputable sources, have them trained and to clean up after them."

Newham Council also offers free dog agility sessions and free microchipping.

If you know of any dangerous dog activity, have concerns about any dogs or animals that may be being mistreated or would like to know more about our free microchipping, call the animal welfare team on 020 8519 8187.

Newham London

Christmas is a comin'

The countdown to Christmas has begun and the Christmas lights are getting turned on. Come and join the party as the seasonal celebrations get under way across Newham.

Whether you fancy traditional carols in East Ham, the Christmas Market at Stratford or singer Michelle Gayle at Gallions Reach, there's something for everyone at this year's Christmas lights switch ons.

Gallions Reach, Saturday 16 November, from 12.30pm
Festive fun with Santa and his reindeer. Singer Michelle Gayle switches on the lights at 4pm. Gallions Reach, 3 Armada Way, E6

Westfield, Saturday 16 November, 5pm
This year Santa is switching on the lights at Westfield. There will also be fireworks and a guest appearance from TV's Dick and Dom. The Street, Westfield Stratford City, E20

East Ham, Saturday 23 November, 2-5pm
Mayor Sir Robin Wales turns on the lights. Music by young people from Newham's Every Child a Musician programme, Christmas carols, Dick Whittington's cat, a lantern parade and a free Santa's Grotto. Pilgrims Way, East Ham, E6

Stratford, Friday 29 November, 5pm
A traditional Christmas with a 45-foot tall spruce tree from Norway, seasonal entertainment and a helter skelter. Sir Robin Wales will switch on the lights. There will also be a Christmas market where you can buy mulled wine, roasted chestnuts, presents and cards. Open Thursday to Sunday throughout December in the run up to Christmas. Meridian Square, Stratford, E15

Forest Gate, Saturday 7 December, 3-6pm
Festive community Christmas lights switch on with craft stalls, school choir, mince pies and mulled wine or hot chocolate and biscuits for the children. Plus, live music from local musicians. Switch on at 5.45pm. Woodgrange Market Place, Sebert Road, Forest Gate, E7

A place to rest

Working in a cemetery isn't the kind of thing you dream to do when you grow up but after 14 years at the borough's only council-run cemetery Denise King has turned her job into a career.

With six other cemeteries in Newham, West Ham Cemetery, straddled between Stratford and Forest Gate, may not be the largest burial ground in the borough but it's one of the least expensive and most compassionate.

The 22-acre site on Cemetery Road has been under the management of the council since 1857. As well as hundreds of graves, the grounds house a small, ragstone chapel which is used for religious and non-religious funeral gatherings.

What services do you offer?
We mainly do burials. We have a dedicated children's area. You'll find that some people want to put balloons and things like that up around the grave. In the main cemetery we don't allow that, but in the children's area we allow anything: toys, teddy bears, balloons, wind chimes, the list goes on. We also have a garden of remembrance.

Do you do cremations?
No, but we do bury ashes and urns. We offer ashes graves, which is half a grave specifically for ashes. With ashes we can bury or scatter as many as required.

With burial space lacking across London, how do you manage?
Most cemeteries in London are struggling with finding burial space and are using reclaimed ground. We are legally able to reclaim vacant space in older graves. Unlike some other cemeteries who do this after 50 years, we wait 100 years. You wouldn't find any remains after this length of time and we would never disturb any remains.

What does your role involve?
As cemetery manager I normally arrange the funeral with the funeral director. We can select the ground or families can chose the plot they want. Muslim burials are a bit different as the family usually arranges the funeral on their own and we liaise with them directly.

I do all the paperwork, for legal reasons

there are documents that have to be presented at a funeral, so I look after all that.

How do you cope with your work?
I have to admit, I have struggled when a child is involved because I am a mum myself. This year we buried a 16-year old and that affected me because I have a son of that age, but generally the work doesn't really affect me.

I've had families coming in laughing and joking about the deceased. That's their way of grieving. I've had families that I have struggled with, in the sense of how do I stop them from crying?

Do people come looking for graves?
These days, everyone wants to trace their family members and our records go back to the beginning. We're linked with a company called Deceased Online. People come and check the grounds for headstones. People are welcome to come in and we can show you how to search or you can go online to www.deceasedonline.com.

What does a funeral cost?
For Newham residents, our prices start from £1,293, other places in the borough charge up to £2,500. There's no law that says you have to use a funeral director, you can buy your own coffin, use your own transportation, deal with us straight and we can lay out the costs. It's a lot cheaper to organise it yourself.

We are a small cemetery in comparison to a lot of other cemeteries in the borough. We normally only have one funeral a day.

We have a lot of volunteers that live locally and help out with the grounds. Some other cemeteries are much busier, with funerals happening one after the other, but it's a lot calmer here.

To find out more about West Ham Cemetery or to volunteer call 020 3373 1193 or email westhamcemetery@newham.gov.uk

CAUGHT ON CAMERA

Where we live and our environment directly affects how we live, how we behave and the attitudes that we are likely to have. Litter is far more than a dropped food wrapper or a cigarette butt. It is a psychological stimulus.

Litter is more serious than you think. Recent experiments by university researchers found that people were twice as likely to commit crimes such as stealing, on a street where there was litter as they were on the same street when there was no litter. By reducing litter we are helping to reduce crime and make Newham a better place to live. Help keep your neighbourhood clean and crime free. We're doing our bit by trying to keep our streets clean and want you to do your bit too.

The pictures on this page show people who are responsible for dropping litter and other forms of anti-social behaviour. If you recognise anyone please call 020 3373 4479 and quote the reference number beside the picture.

Caring for the community

If there are jobs up for grabs, Workplace, Newham Council's employment service, wants our residents to be first in line for them. Joining up with partners Newham College of Further Education means that job seekers can get the skills and the know-how they need to secure employment that could turn their job into a lifelong career.

More than 17,000 residents have been supported into work since May 2007 when Workplace opened. During this time Workplace has worked in partnership with Newham College. The college, which has campuses in East Ham and Stratford, has delivered training in areas including retail, hospitality, leisure and tourism and customer services.

Its most recent endeavour is tapping into vacancies in the NHS and care sector. To ensure residents are best placed to apply for and secure these roles, Workplace has been recommending suitable candidates to undertake the Preparing to Work in the Health Care Sector course, which has been designed specifically to provide the skills required by Barts Health NHS Trust.

Since March, more than 46 people have completed the course with many going on to secure roles with Barts Health NHS Trust or with other care providers.

Rosette Namwante, maternity care assistant, Newham University Hospital

"I've always wanted to work in a healthcare environment. I found out about the Preparing to Work in the Health Care Sector course from a friend. I was interested in completing it but you had to be registered with Workplace so I went and signed up and was assigned an advisor. My CV needed updating. I was helped with this and given interview support.

"The course was intense – 9am to 5pm every day – but very informative. Most of the units focused on working in a medical environment, record keeping, communication and team work. We also learned things like how to write a job application supporting statement.

"While doing the course some vacancies came up. We had a week to apply. My advisor helped me practise my interview skills. I gave it my all and got the job. It felt like my prayers had been answered.

"I started work in September and really enjoy it. I work three long days (7am to 8pm). As a mum, this works well for me. I have also applied to work as part of a bank of staff on my days off where I can choose to do additional hours.

"Before doing the course I hadn't studied for 17 years and didn't have any experience in this area so I'm still learning lots.

"Workplace has been brilliant and has helped me so much. What I like most is that they're assisting local people to get jobs in their area which is just what I needed."

Nadia Fernandes, orthopaedic nursing assistant, Whipps Cross University Hospital

"Before getting this job I was out of work for three years.

"I found out about this course through Workplace. I wanted to do some training and develop myself and my skills in order to find a job. Nursing is not just about looking after people, you have to be committed and compassionate towards patients.

"The course was challenging and very intense. As well as being at college all day we had homework in the evening.

"The thing I found most useful was how to complete a personal statement – I used to struggle with this. I felt much more confident applying for jobs and I started to receive lots of job offers.

"I was nervous about my interview but was a lot more confident than before because we had interview training. Before getting this job I'd applied for other jobs in the NHS and wasn't successful. When I got the phone call saying I had got the job I couldn't believe it.

"I like to take care of people. You don't know what the future holds and I treat my patients as I would like to be treated. The feedback I get from patients is really good. It makes me feel like I'm doing well and encourages me to do my best.

"My children look at me and they feel proud and they want to follow my lead. When I wasn't working I was always worried that they might think I was lazy. When I started working the first thing I thought was now I can show them how hard working I really am."

Be first in line for jobs

If you're serious about finding work, Workplace can help you secure a job. To find out more about employment opportunities and training visit www.newhamworkplace.co.uk or call 020 3373 1101.

Ship shape students

Students on board the SS Robin

More than 400 Newham College students are helping to restore the historic SS Robin, moored in Royal Victoria Dock.

The students, all studying basic to advanced level engineering and motor vehicle courses, are cleaning up the engine room as part of a £3m restoration programme.

The 340-tonne SS Robin was first fitted out at East India Dock and began transporting goods between Liverpool and London in 1890.

Muhammad Yiosese, 20, from Plaistow, who wants to become a mechanical engineer, said: "It's good to work on an historic ship. You can see how the engine works, how the cargo was stored, and see the material that people used to work with. It's a rare opportunity."

The SS Robin Trust obtained a Heritage Lottery Fund grant to bring the ship to the Royal Victoria Dock and turn it into a floating museum by 2014.

Newham London

Starting school

If your child will have their 5th birthday between 1 September 2014 and 31 August 2015 you need to apply for a reception class place now.

The deadline for a reception class place for September 2014 is 15 January 2014. If you miss this date you will have less chance of getting the school that you prefer. Pick up a copy of the autumn 2013 edition of the Starting School guide from any Newham Council operated nursery, infant or primary school.

Apply online, to apply on time.
